Libya, The Target Country of The World's Economies

After it experienced many disorders and chaos in recent years, Libya, which has the highest petroleum income in the world, has entered a process of reconstruction and Libya's need of help from the countries offering economical support has increasingly grown. Libya's institutional integration with the global economy interests deeply all the countries, which carry out their activities in Libya, and in particular to European countries (France, Spain, Great Britain, Italy). Because of its position it holds, Libya, which is an important door to the African region, offers serious opportunities for the investors who wants to increase their shares in Libyan market

FOOD & PACK SHOW

Libya whose agricultural production was affected because of the factors, such as economical embargo, climate conditions and soil structure, and whose need of liberalization is fastly increasing, imports about 80% of food products it needs. With the restructuring process, development of the packing and packaging sector has undeniably increased in the country that the living standards has begun to rise. This has turned the agriculture, food and packaging sectors into strategical sectors. In this context, Food & Pack Show offers its exhibitors an important platform in the country that profitable investments are inevitably possible.
